Global sociology from the “metropole”: Alt-Treptow, Berlin

By Johannes Becker. This essay situates global processes within Alt-Treptow, Berlin. Drawing on local histories—from Huguenot migration to commemorative politics—it illustrates how global power relations, colonial legacies, and geopolitical confrontations are inscribed in everyday urban spaces.